Ontario Halfway House Listings & Application Guide (2026-27)

Last updated: October 2026
Published by: inteGREAT

This guide and the shortened version (Ontario Halfway House Listings & Info Booklet) were created as part of inteGREAT, a joint initiative of St. Leonard's Society of Canada (SLSC) and Lifers' Liaison Group (LLG). The purpose of inteGREAT is to establish a system navigation service within and beyond the federal prison system. It aims to improve access to justice by collaboratively reducing systemic silos, improving collaboration, and empowering people to better understand their rights, responsibilities, and options.

Acknowledgements

We appreciate the organizations that operate the halfway house featured in this guide for their collaboration in this process and overall contributions to their communities. We are grateful to the Ontario Community Residential Facility Alliance (OCRFA) for creating the original OCRFA Application Guide that provided the foundation for this guide.

We give our thanks to the currently and formerly incarcerated people, CSC staff, community-based professionals*, and the* inteGREAT Advisory Committee who provided their input to inform the development of this guide.

We are grateful to The Law Foundation of Ontario for funding the inteGREAT initiative, making the production of this guide possible.

Sources

Each organization listed in this guide was contacted to confirm their information. This guide draws on the Corrections and Conditional Release Act (CCRA), the Corrections and Conditional Release Regulations (CCRR), and Correctional Service Canada (CSC) and Parole Board of Canada (PBC) publications, including CSC Commissioner's Directives (CDs). Readers should consult the current versions of these sources, and the organizations, for official information.

Indigenous Land Acknowledgement

The land now known as Ontario is the traditional territory of many Indigenous communities that have and continue to live on and care for these lands. We recognize that Canada is a colonial country, and that the systems and institutions that exist today were shaped by colonization and continue to affect First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples across Turtle Island.

In this guide, we have done our best to include the Indigenous lands and nations associated with each city to recognize the traditional territories and peoples connected to the lands where the halfway houses are located.

Acknowledging the land is more than a formality.
It is a reminder of our shared responsibility to learn from the past, recognize inequities, and work toward communities and systems that are fair, inclusive, and supportive for everyone.

African Ancestral Acknowledgement

We acknowledge that we live and work on territories governed by Treaties, which establish relationships between Indigenous nations and those who came to these lands.

While some arrived as settlers or voluntary migrants, we recognize that others came here involuntarily - specifically those brought to these lands through the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade and the institution of slavery.

We acknowledge these ancestors of African and Caribbean origin and descent, acknowledging their enduring strength, their contributions to this land, and the ongoing systemic injustices that demand our collective action.

WELCOME

ONTARIO HALFWAY HOUSE LISTINGS & APPLICATION GUIDE!

Deciding where you will live after leaving prison is an important part of planning your return to the community. The right living environment can give you more than just a place to stay. It can offer stability, structure, support, and connections to resources to help you work toward your goals.

Taking the time to understand your options and find a place that aligns with your needs can help you have a smoother transition back into the community.
This guide was created to help make that process easier.

Who is this guide for?

This guide was made for people navigating the Canadian federal prison and parole system.

It can be helpful for people who are currently in Correctional Service Canada (CSC) institutions who want to be released to Ontario, and for the people helping them with that process.

How do I use this guide?

Whether you are returning to your home community or starting somewhere new, this guide is meant to be a starting point to help you explore and weigh your options with your case management team.

Use the contact and application information to contact halfway houses directly and start building a relationship.

What info is in this guide?

This guide offers information to help answer questions like:

- What is a halfway house?
- What are the different types of release?
- What halfway houses are in Ontario?
- What halfway houses am I eligible to go to?
- How do I apply, and what improves my chances of being accepted?

This version has full profiles of houses that provide services to men and male-identifying individuals, with some facilities provide services to all/multiple genders [see pages 14 - 118].

Another version will be created with full profiles of houses that provide services to women and gender diverse individuals, which are only listed in this version [see pages 12 - 13].

Who made this guide?

An original version of this guide was created by the Ontario CRF Alliance. In 2026, inteGREAT helped to update the information and layout of the guide.

To inform the development of the updated guide, we consulted with:

- currently and formerly incarcerated people;
- CSC staff; and
- community-based professionals and experts.

All halfway house information was provided and approved by the organizations that run them.

No matter where you are in your sentence, it is never too early to start thinking about release. The sooner you begin exploring your options and building connections with halfway houses, the better. Preparing early can also help you identify how to spend your time while you're still inside to increase the odds of being accepted when it's time to apply.

We wish you the best of luck and look forward to welcoming you back to the community!

WHAT IS A HALFWAY HOUSE?

WHAT IS A HALFWAY HOUSE?

A halfway house - also called a Community Residential Facility (CRF) - is a structured residence that helps people safely and gradually transition from prison to a community.

These houses offer a safe, stable, and supervised place to live and adjust to life on the outside. They help meet your basic needs and support you to focus on your goals, attend programs, look for/go to work or school, and build a responsible and healthy life in the community.

CRF = halfway house

ARE ALL HALFWAY HOUSES THE SAME?

While all houses have the same general purpose, every house is unique. Think of it this way: all halfway houses help people return to a community, but each one does it a little differently.

Halfway houses can differ based on:

- Specializations: Some focus on supporting people with specific needs, like those related to age, conviction, culture, gender, or health.
- Programs, services & features: There is a range in what they offer. Some are provided in-house, others are referred to community resources.
- Location: Many are in city centres. Others are more rural. There are differences in what's nearby.
- Appearance: There is no single design. Some are large, historic houses that look like a large family home. Others are more modern and may look like an apartment building or small community center.
- Expectations & eligibility: Every facility has its own rules and criteria for who they will accept. They may have different recommendations for what they'd like to see from you.

It is important to take time to understand your options. You want to make sure you are a good fit for them, and that the house is a good fit for what you need!

WHO RUNS HALFWAY HOUSES?

Most halfway houses are run by community-based, non-profit organizations. Some operate on their own, others are part of a larger network of service providers.

All have trained staff on-site 24 hours a day to support you, answer questions, and supervise the building.

Did You Know

There are more than 180 halfway houses in Canada!

WILL I GO TO A HALFWAY HOUSE?

Not everyone will go to a halfway house. The Parole Board (PBC) gives some people a residency requirement as a condition of their release, which means they have to live at a halfway house for a certain period of time.

Some people request/choose to live at a halfway house when released, but are not required to. This is a voluntary residency.

In both cases, you have to apply and be accepted for residency by a halfway house.

When you can be released to a halfway house depends on your sentence and parole eligibility dates.

WHEN SHOULD I APPLY?

Getting in touch: Many houses suggest contacting them as soon as possible to start building a relationship (even if you're years away from parole!). They will tell you when they want you to apply.

Applying: Generally, it is recommended that you apply at least 6 - 12 months before your earliest parole eligibility date.

DEFINITIONS

Here are some definitions of important terms to help you understand the info in this guide and the release process:

CASE MANAGEMENT TEAM (CMT): Group of staff who work with you to set goals, keep track of progress, find resources, and help you prepare for release.

COMMUNITY ASSESSMENT (CA): A review of your situation, needs, and proposed plan by a COMMUNITY ASSESSMENT TEAM (CAT) to decide if the placement is a good fit and how your needs and risks can be managed.

COMMUNITY ASSESSMENT TEAM (CAT): A group of individuals in the community who do the COMMUNITY ASSESSMENT (CA). It includes halfway house staff and other community professionals.

COMMUNITY CORRECTIONAL CENTRE (CCC): A facility that is similar to a HALFWAY HOUSE, but is run by Correctional Service Canada (CSC). CCCs offer a highly structured and secure living environment.

COMMUNITY-BASED RESIDENTIAL FACILITY (CRF/CBRF): Official term for HALFWAY HOUSE.

CONDITIONAL RELEASE: Serving part of your sentence in the community with specific rules. You can be sent back to prison if you do not follow the conditions. [Commonly known as "PAROLE"]

CORRECTIONAL PLAN: The map for what you need to work on during your sentence to reduce your risk and prepare you to return safely to the community.

DAY PAROLE (DP): A type of CONDITIONAL RELEASE granted by PAROLE BOARD OF CANADA (PBC). It allows you to live in the community while staying a HALFWAY HOUSE or other approved place.

Eligibility:

- Determinate sentence → 6 months before your FULL PAROLE ELIGIBILITY DATE (PED) OR after serving 6 months (whichever is longer)
- Life/Indeterminate sentence → 3 years before your FULL PAROLE ELIGIBILITY DATE (PED)

Did You Know

About 40% of federally sentenced people are in the community on day parole, full parole, statutory release, or a long-term supervision order.

[Source: Public Safety Canada. (2026). 2024 Corrections and Conditional Release Statistical Overview]

ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA: The required traits or conditions you must have to participate, apply, or be accepted.

ESCORTED TEMPORARY ABSENCE (ETA): A type of TEMPORARY ABSENCE (TA) that allows you to leave prison with 1 or more approved persons who are with you the whole time. The pass may be for just you or for a group. [Commonly known as a "PASS"]

- Generally for a few hours / 1 day (max. 5 - 15 days)
- Eligibility: May be granted at any time in your sentence

EXCLUSION CRITERIA: Traits or conditions that mean you cannot participate, apply, or be accepted.

FINGERPRINT SERIAL NUMBER (FPS #): A unique number assigned by Correctional Service Canada (CSC) to identify you in it's system.

FULL PAROLE (FP): A type of CONDITIONAL RELEASE granted by the PAROLE BOARD OF CANADA (PBC) that allows you to serve the rest of your sentence in the community. Generally, you will have fewer PAROLE CONDITIONS and more independence.

Eligibility:

- Determinate sentences → After serving ⅓ of your sentence OR 7 years (whichever is less), unless a judge gives you a different PAROLE ELIGIBILITY DATE (PED)
- Indeterminate sentences → 7 years from the date you were taken into custody
- Life sentences → 10 - 25 years from the date you were taken into custody (as decided by the judge)

Did You Know

On average, 91% of people successfully complete day parole, and 88% of people successfully complete full parole.

[Source: Public Safety Canada. (2026). 2024 Corrections and Conditional Release Statistical Overview]

HALFWAY HOUSE: A structured residence that helps people safely and gradually transition from prison to a community. [Commonly known as "CRF"]

HEALING LODGE: A structured and culturally-focused facility for people committed to an Indigenous healing path. It helps you safely and gradually prepare for release by connecting with Indigenous culture, services, traditions, and community. [Commonly known as a "Section 81 release". See Corrections & Conditional Release Act, S. 81].

- Note: There are 10 healing lodges in Canada. None are in Ontario, but there are some Indigenous-led halfway houses and Indigenous community programs & supports across the province.

INSTITUTIONAL PAROLE OFFICER (IPO): This is your main CSC caseworker while you are in prison. Your IPO's role is to help you navigate the system, track your behaviour, review your progress on your CORRECTIONAL PLAN, connect you with community resources, and help you prepare for release.

LONG-TERM SUPERVISION ORDER (LTSO): Court-ordered conditions and supervision in the community after your sentence has been completed/you have passed your WARRANT EXPIRY DATE (WED). It can be given to people deemed to be "high risk". If you don't follow the conditions, you can be sent back to prison.

PAROLE BOARD OF CANADA (PBC): The independent decision-making body that decides whether you will be granted or continued on CONDITIONAL RELEASE, and your PAROLE CONDITIONS. They are not part of Correctional Service Canada (CSC).

PAROLE CONDITIONS: Rules you must follow when on release in the community, or you may be sent back to prison. These include "Release Conditions" and "Special Conditions".

PAROLE ELIGIBILITY DATE (PED): The date you are legally eligible to be considered for parole. Reaching this date does not guarantee release; you have to apply.

RELEASE PLAN: Your map for when you leave prison and how your needs and risks will be managed. It can include things like:

- Where you plan to go (city) and live (halfway house, family home…)
- What you plan to do / how you will spend your time (school, programs, work…)
- Who your supports are (family, friends, organizations, community groups…)

SECTION 84 RELEASE: A process for an Indigenous community to help plan and support your release and integration into that community. [See Corrections & Conditional Release Act, section 84]

STATUTORY RELEASE (SR): Legal requirement for most federally sentenced people to serve the final ⅓ of their sentence in the community under supervision.

- Note: People with a life or indeterminate sentence are not eligible.
- Note: If the PAROLE BOARD OF CANADA (PBC) believes you are likely to cause serious harm if released, they can keep you in prison past this date.

TEMPORARY ABSENCE (TA): Approved passes that allow you to leave prison for short periods of time for specific reasons, like medical appointments, legal matters, volunteering, family visits, or job training. There are 3 types: ESCORTED TEMPORARY ABSENCE (ETA), UNESCORTED TEMPORARY ABSENCE (UTA), and WORK RELEASE (WR).

UNESCORTED TEMPORARY ABSENCE (UTA): A type of TEMPORARY ABSENCE (TA) that allows you to leave prison by yourself. [Commonly known as a "PASS"]

- Often between 48 hours and 15 days (some can be up to 60 days)
- Must have served part of your sentence (amount of time depends on sentence)
- Cannot apply if classified as maximum security or are being held past your STATUTORY RELEASE date

WORK RELEASE (WR): A type of TEMPORARY ABSENCE (TA) that allows you to leave the prison for volunteer, employment, or skill-building opportunities.

- Must be eligible for UNESCORTED TEMPORARY ABSENCES (UTA) to apply

A FEW TIPS

Introduce yourself:
When reaching out, tell the halfway houses who you are, why you want to live there, and what you have been doing to prepare for release. Be honest and show them you want to return to the community.

Get organized:
Write down the names of the houses you contact, apply to, dates paperwork were sent, and the names of the staff you speak with. Keep a list of the things you need to do or get to prepare. Using a notebook can help you stay organized.

Explore your options & ask questions:
Get info on different halfway houses. Find out what their house is like, who they can support, what programs they offer, and what they expect from residents. This helps you decide if the house is a good fit for you and what your options are.

Stay focused & patient:
The application process can take time. You might not hear back right away.

Keep working on achievable goals. Focus on what you can control.

Don't give up.

Work with your Case Management Team:
They are an important part of planning for release. Stay engaged with your correctional plan and talk with them about your release plan. Ask what they need to support you for release.

Take control of your sentence:
Empower yourself. Gather info. Learn your rights. Explore your options.

You are not alone, but you have to do the work and advocate for yourself to move forward.

HALFWAY HOUSES FOR WOMEN+

Below is contact info for halfway houses that provide services to women and gender-diverse individuals (this includes people who were assigned female at birth, cisgender women, transgender women, and non-binary people). The houses are organized by city.

NOTE: Some of the halfway houses that support men provide services to transgender men (men who were assigned female at birth) and people of other gender identities. A few provide services to transgender women (women who were assigned male at birth) on a case-by-case basis. A small number of them are co-ed facilities, meaning they provide services to men and women.

PAGE #

Page numbers have been indicated for houses that have a full profile in this guide. Profiles for the remaining houses will be included in a future guide.

If you have questions about whether a house may be a good fit for you, or about their other eligibility criteria, reach out to ask!

2. Our Chaplain will provide a response once your letter is received.
3. You will then be added to our institutional list for an interview with staff. Please note that staff will also be attending pre-release fairs, which is an opportunity to provide updates on your situation as well.
4. Your IPO will then initiate a Community Assessment to the Guelph Parole OFfice.
5. Our Community Assesment Team will review your application and make a decision based on the information provided.

RECOMMENDATIONS

You are more likely to be approved if you:

- Keep us updated on your situation
- Work with your Case Management Team to develop a community plan that includes connections to the area
- Continue to show that you are working with your IPO on your correctional plan and programming
